MANY NOVEL FEATURES

Although the standard for originality and artistic designing has been mounting higher with the appearance of each year's annual, the Kentuckian of 1928, under the editorship of Miss Dorothy Sellers, gives promise of advancing still another step.

The themes of this year's book will be the depicting of Civil War Scenes on the Southern side. Miss Joy Pride, art editor, will have charge of this work. She will be assisted by several nationally known commercial artists. The list of these artists has not yet been made.

An established feature of the Kentuckian is the "Kentucky Beauty" section, which includes portraits of the most beautiful girls on the unitable of New versity campus. A committee of New York artists is now being selected to act as judges for this year's contest. Pictures will be submitted to the udges in three weeks.

There will be many other new fea-tures in the Kentuckian for this year, but the editors refuse to disclose them. "For," in their words, "who wants to buy a book when one knows

ALUMNI AND THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Alumni of the University of Kentucky, like the alumni of the workings of their alma mater. They know that the university is supported and maintained by the state and for this reason concentrate their interests in the athletic teams of the school and leave the other activities to the state and the officials. This is a condition that the alumni associations in a great many of the state supported schools are using every effort to correct.

The University of Kentucky is particularly unfortunate in having this condition exist to an alarming degree. Our alumni know too little of what their alma mater is doing off the football field. Our alumni, through ignorance, fail to render a service that would be invaluable to the university. The service in itself is a simple matter. Learn the needs of the university and then use your influence to help your school realize the needed assistance from its only source of income.

In a great many of the universities and colleges, not supported by the state, alumni are called on each year to help carry on the work of their alma maters. This we are not called upon to do. We are asked for no direct financial assistance. We can be instrumental in getting for our university the needed financial assistance if we organize and do a minimum fo work. This service can be told in a very few words.

Within a few months the members of the General Assembly of Kentucky will meet in Frankfort to attend to the business of governing the State of Kentucky for the next two years. The general assembly will at this time make appropriations for the maintenance and expansion of all the state supported institutions, for two years. In November the men who will make up this general assembly will be elected. Each district will send its representatives and senators to Frankfort. These men know little of the University of Kentucky. They are not acquainted with the services that the university renders to Kentucky.

In the ten years just passed attendance at the University of Kentucky has grown until now it is approximately 2,500. It has more than doubled during this time. When the university opened in the fall of 1919 there were 1,200 students enrolled. The officials were pressed that year to make classroom space to take care of the youth of our state who sought higher education. This year with an enrollment of nearly 2,500 the same amount of classroom space is available. There has been no addition of classroom space during this time, with the exception of an addition to the Chemistry building. Young women students have been turned away time and time again because there was not sufficient dormitory space to take care of them

These are but a few of the facts that alumni of the state should place before the members of the General Assembly of Kentucky before these men leave for Frankfort. Tell these men what the university is doing for Kentucky and explain that there will be more and more students each year who will seek education here at the university. Explain that if Kentucky cannot furnish these students with the proper training they may not be able to get it elsewhere.

enominal growth and expansion of their universities. They attained their aim by organization and work, and only a little work at that. Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and West Virginia, with their universities, younger than our's are outdistancing us in their growth and expansion. We as Kentuckians cannot allow that. Meet your senator and your representative and get them to promise to support the university during the coming session of the legislature. A personal appeal will go a long way and cost you only a little time.

JUDGE K. L. HIFNER DIES IN FLORIDA

Graduate of Class of 1887, One of Oldest U. K. Alumni, Suc-cumbs After Heart Attack

POPULAR CITIZEN

Judge Kerney Lee Hifner, who was graduated from the University with the degree of B. S. with the class of 1887, died at his home in Lake Worth, Fla., May 19, 1927, according to an account of his death which has just reached the alumni office. He was in apparent good health and his death came as a result of heart trouble. He was buried in Lake Worth and the funeral was conducted by the Masonic Order.

Judge Hifner was born in Jessamine county in 1864 and was 63 years old when he died. He lived for the greater part of his life in Kentucky and went to Florida in 1914. He moved to Lake Worth, building the first house in that town. He was for years in the contracting and building business. He was the first town clerk of Lake Worth, retiring at the expiration of his term of office. When a charter was granted to the town, creating the office of police judge, Judge Hifner was elected to that office, which he held until his death.

He was in apparent good health

He was in apparent good health the day he died and had gone that morning into his fruit grove near his house. THANKS, WESLEYAN

The Kernel wishes to both thank and complimen the student body of Kentucky Wesleyan for their sportsmanship Wednesday night of last week when the Flamingo, bearing the Wildcat football team southward for the Florida game, passed through Winchester.

It was too late to record the incident in the editorial columns of the paper last week, so The Kernel is taking this opportunity to thank the Wesleyan team, band, and student body for the songs, yells, and encouragement which they showered upon the Blue and White warriors in the few minutes the train laid over in Winchester.

The athletic and curricular relations between the university, Kentuky Wesleyan, and other institutions of the state have been especially pleasant this year, and The Kernel, speaking for the student body of the university, rejoices in the fact.

THE COLLEGE PRESS

.In past years the college press has often been ac sed of being devoted exclusively to accounts of athletic events, social festivities and the like. As The Nation in a recent editorial, points out, however, college paper throughout the country today are devoting considerable space and attention to the consideration of weightier matters. The Kernel takes pleasure in reprinting herewith this editorial.

(Reprinted from The Nation)

We have been reading here and there in the undergraduate press of the country, and we have come to the conclusion that Amrican students are outrageously defamed. The current notion is that the rah-rah boys of twenty years ago has been succeeded by a creature with smooth hair who, to be sure, is crude no longer but who could actually afford to take on a little crudenesscould venture, for instance, to develop an enthusiastic interest in the affairs of the world. The current notion of the undergraduate is that he has brains but is too bored to use them. Having scanned the editorial pages of the Coe College Cosmos, the Yale News, the Duke University Chronical, the University of Georgia Red and Black, the Rice Institute Thresher, and other student

"Nourished on a steady diet of platitudes," the Coe College Cosmos assures its readers, "the student is fortunate if he possesses any mind at all." It is much to have recognized that most of what one hears, in college or out, is meaningless. The editors of the Cosmos have gone further than this, however; they have informed themselves, and they have thought about things until these things had meaning. They have taken the trouble to find out what is really going on in China. They have asked why Mr. Coolidge should send marines to Nicaragua, in the interest of order, and should not send them to Chicago. And they write:

Let us have done with this chatter about making war more pleasant, more humane. Let no effort be spared to make it as deadly and ghastly as possible.

Doubtless many college papers still fill all their space with nice nothings about local crises in social and athletic relations. But it is refreshing to see a number of dailies spreading over their front pages intelligent news articles about American foreign relations, the censorship of books, race prejudice, preparedness, the politics of Chicago, and recent developments in the world of science and of art. The Yale News, among all of the papers we have examined, goes farthest in the direction of grown-up journalism. Some of its contemporaries have as intelligent and critical an editorial page, but only a few can rival it for volume of significant news. And its editorials, which happen to be of a liberal cast, often have to be answered from off the campus. One of its pronouncements on the allied debt, for example, drew letters on the same day from Secretary Mellon and the Wall Street Journal.

WHO WON?

Since last Friday afternoon when the annual freshman-sophomore tug-of-war end d in a general free-forall, the paramount question on the campus has been "Who won?" From present indications the question will be one of endless dispute and like the Shakesperian-Bacon controversy will be argued pro and con for

It is a lamentable fact that at the University of Kentucky it seems impossible to conduct a contest like the annual tug-of-war in an absolutely fair manner. Perhaps it is just human nature to slip a little and not play exactly according to the rules when one is losingand perhaps it was this weakness of human nature that caused a number of extra freshmen to jump to the aid of their fellow-classmen and which caused the sophomores to throw down the coble, grab a hose, and begin to sprinkle their opponents.

There is no doubt that the tug-of-war this year furnished an exceedingly large amount of amusement for both spectators and particpants. It is equally certain that the manner in which the contest was held this year is vastly superior to that of former years when Clifton pond was pressed into service and when there was always the possibility that someone might drown or become seriously ill as a result.

But neither the enjoyment furnished nor the superiority of this method over the old, is sufficient to overcome the fact that the contest was not carried out according to the rules. If the rules are wrong, change them. But as long as these rules are in force it is The Kernel's opinion that both classes should have played the game according to the rules.

So in answer to the question which is sweeping the campus, "Who won?" The Kernel is obliged to say "no one"-no contest.

A TREE OUTSIDE MY BEDROOM WINDOW

There is a tree outside my bedroom window A plain and unpretentious tree. Tall-it towers beside my bedroom window This solitary, quiet tree. Its leaves are tinted by the autumn frosts Till browned and seared they show-Its boughs are bent and marred and broken, One droops against my window, low.

This tree in summer shades my bedroom window This tree in winter hangs with snow. And yet, until to-day, I had not noticed That this tree had any soul. The rising sun outside my bedroom window Shone full and strong upon that tree And made of it, with all its golden glory A thing of beauty, just for me.

Some people are like that, they live beside us Quiet and unpretentious, too, As we strive blindly in pursuit of pleasure We fail to know that they strive, too. And then one day, there comes an understanding A purpose or some tasks that call Light up the inner spirit of their being So their true worth is shown to all. -N. F. R.

You enjoy the refreshing delight of ice cream, but you like best that ice cream which combines with creamy richness and smooth texture the delicate and pronounced flavors of the fruits with which it is made.

We make our ice cream by the HEATH method, a scientific improvement on all other ways of making ice cream, for two reasons. Firstly, it is a safeguard of purity. Our ice cream is made in freezers from which the air has been expelled and replaced by a sterile, pure, clean atmosphere. The second reason is that Heathization intensifies the flavors, increases the creamy, velvety texture of the ice cream and makes it smoother and more delicious.

You will enjoy our ice cream more than any you have ever tasted because of these added features which are our exclusive right in this city.

Our ice cream is sold only by our duly appointed agencies. Insure getting the best and purest ice cream by buying it where you see our sign.

However, despite Coach Major's contentions that no outstanding qualities have shown up yet, he believes that a few more days of in-tensive practice will make the team ery efficient, provided, of course, no injuries mar its chances. The back field is fast and dependable only to limited degree.

Their previous showings against the rarsity have been fair at times, while at other times not so good. Some of the trick plays work well others are completely broken up, and for this reason, the Kittens will have to make every play count o emerge victorious over the fast and heavy Georgetown aggregation which holds the state title. The line will average about 168 pounds and the backfield about 155, which averaged together will produce a team of low average weight.

The outcome of the first game, if a victory, will mean a great deal as the Kittens have not defeated the Georgetown Cubs since 1924, when they completely overwhelmed them by a 32 to 0 victory. Their showing in this game will also determine their chances against the Vanderbilt, West Virginia, Tennessee and Centre elevens, who from reports are in perfect condition to withstand well fect condition to withstand well rained oncomers.

It is too early yet to estimate lacking and everybody at Kentucky is hoping that this is not unfounded.

RELIGIOUS DISCUSSION

(By F. G. Coffin)

JESUS CHRIST, CREATOR

The mystery of Christ enlarges with every new angle of vision. Truly He is All, and in all. Because of His greatness it has been difficult for men to comprehend Him fully. Some have therefore discerned but one phase of Him and thought that was He. He is the unique personality in all history.

The title He bore after His birth, viz., "the Son of God," He was before. Was with God, and the Word and the Word was God.

And the Word became flesh and welt among us, and we beheld His play; glory as of the only begotten from the Father, full of grace and truth." He declared "before Abraham I am," and prayed to the Father for "the glory which I had with thee.

He. He is the unique personality in all history.

Along two avenues men have sought His origination—one from all eternity and the other beginning with the days of His flesh. The misfortune has been that some of those who traveled each of these days were exclusionists. Some doubted His humanity, others His divinity. Because of no parallels in experience and the close horizons of all human reasoning, some said He could not have stoop to be human; others thought it was impossible for one in the flesh to be divine. Both forgot that God has impossibilities within the province of His will. In Christ's great personality and mission neither of these qualities can be understood if disassociated from the other. Exclusive the ological definitions have not a few ated from the other. Exclusive the-ological definitions have not a few times beclouded the purpose of both He had power to lay down His life

DANCE HELD AFTER GAME

The R. O. T. C. unit will go to Danville on Saturday, November 19, for the Kentucky-Centre game, if present plans of members of the advanced course materialize. Papers are being given to all the military compani to sign, and a large number have al-ready expressed their desire to go, according to Cadet Colonel J. J. Rich-

A special train will carry the cadets to Danville, leaving here about 11:30 a. m., and will arrive in Danville about 12:30 p. m. A train will be run to Lexington about 12:00 o'clock Saturday night, in order that thos who wish to, may stay over for the dance given at the Centre College gymnasium. Those not desiring to attend the dance may return on the scheduled train, which leaves Dan-ville soon after the game. Round trip tickets are $1.50, and admission the game $2.00.

The band and the regiment will form at the station in Danville, and, taking the shortest route will parade to the stadium. Uniforms may be discarded after the game. Practically all the cadets of the second battalion have signed their names to the sheet, and those in the first battalion are arged to do likewise.

This is the first time in the history of the university that the military department has attempted to take the R. O. T. C. unit to an out-of-town game, and they are very desirious that every cadet go.

he is in the minister's ability to dis-pense to the needs of the world the worth while things of life, namely dispensing the things of the spirit. The Church is a spiritualizing agency. Dean Walker says: "The only function of the Church is to spiritualize the neighborhood." If this is true the thing ought to be up-permost in the thinking of those who are charged with its establishment Work is now finished on the rear adrangle of the Art Center, which has been made into a formal sunker garden, the central feature of which is a pool and fountain located in the middle and reached by four flag-stone walks.

At the east of the pool a sun-dial has been placed and to the west a bird bath. The terrace at the northern part of the garden has been made attractive by the planting of shrubs, poplars and many hardy perennials. If there are sufficient funds a pergola will be placed by the theater.

The garden has been planned so that it will be attractive in all sea-sons, as the flowers are of the kind that will bloom in the spring and fall, while the evergreens will brigh-ten the winter days. There will also be plants in summer in order that the summer school students may have advantage of the garden. Stone benches have been placed in several laces in the garden.

The present entrance is through the Romany Theater, but another is to be made through the Art Center.

RELIGIOUS DISCUSSION

(By Albert R. Perkins) THE CHURCH

Have you ever stopped to think what the Church is? Sometime in your life you have thought of it as divinely given and to your thinking there was nothing like it. There are people who think it was not touched by the hand of human ingenuity, and that no hand ought to touch it. Notwithstanding these attitudes you can seen the finger of human genius all over the Church.

To the average man today Church he wants to see in it a socia est capacity and usually he doesn't
